LEADING FASHION DESIGNERS HIT THE SLOPES

The White Spot marks a Titanic date, and Ralph Lauren scales down his car collection. . . .

WINDS OF CHANGE * Launched this summer in time for the company's 40th anniversary, the Morris Yachts Ocean Series 48 GT (www.morrisyachts.com) marks a new era for this Maine-based boutique builder of sailing yachts. The 48 GT is the first model from the company's next wave of performance vessels. It employs a larger rig than previous Morris models, to increase speed under sail. It also showcases the company's self-tacking jib and a mainsail design that enables easier handling in heavy winds. The yacht, which has a starting price of about $1.25 million, can be customized, but the basic belowdecks layout includes two staterooms, a living area, and a full galley. . . .

SMOKE ON THE WATER * Around 1912, Alfred Dunhill began marking his company's pipes with a white spot to show his customers how to position the mouthpiece. The white spot became the company's logo and the name of the pipe-making business, which operates independently of the Dunhill luxury-goods brand. This year, the White Spot is marking another centennial. The White Spot Titanic 1912 to 2012 (www.whitespot.co.uk) is a limited-edition release of 200. The classic horn-shaped pipe is available in a shell brier ($4,490) or bruyere finish ($4,990) and is adorned with a sterling-silver band. White Spot also is offering 25 pipes in an amber root finish ($5,990) with an 18-karat gold band. Each pipe comes with a nautical-themed presentation case and a pipe top shaped like the ocean liner's smokestacks and containing a piece of wood from a salvaged Titanic deck chair. . . .

SMALLER THAN LIFE * Mini versions of the Ferrari 375 Plus and Jaguar D-Type are among the 17 one-to-eight-scale model cars in the Ralph Lauren Fine Model Cars collection (212.606.2100). Each of the $9,500 models is based on a car in Lauren's collection and is finished by hand. The master model for each car required at least 3,000 hours to complete, and subsequent models took a minimum of 350 hours to build. . . .
